

Restorative PRACTICES

Introduction and Foundations for School Communities

Restorative practices are processes that emphasize the importance of establishing routines and expectations for positive student behavior and using approaches that strengthen relationships, create a respectful environment, and proactively build a community to prevent problems from arising. When problems do occur, the restorative practices approach helps to restore relationships and repair the harm caused to the school community. Join us for a half-day session focused on building positive relationships and engaging students to develop supportive school culture.
